CONTAGIOUS ERUPTIVE DISEASE

In the late winter and early spring, the contagious eruptive diseases have a way of descending upon us in force. Of course, most of them are with us to some extent during all twelve months, but it is at this season of the year that the doctor expects to find them most prevalent.

Fortunately, however, such outbreaks of them as we now have on this continent are mild compared to what they used to be like a few years ago. I can remember when in making my rounds I found homes full of measles, scarlet fever, chicken pox and the like. It was always my theory that these diseases hit hardest in the spring because many children were then in a "run down" condition, with resistance weakened by winter conditions and perhaps a series of head and chest colds.

The reason, therefore, we don't have such serious spring outbreaks now is that children, and adults too, winter better than they used to. The public has learned a great deal about the important part diet, that is, vitamins, play in health, and eats accordingly in winter. Its clothes, homes and living habits have all become, in general, better adapted to winter living.

However, a great deal more needs to be learned about protecting health in winter, particularly about guarding against colds, and so there still are outbreaks of infectious diseases at this season. Of these scarlet fever is particularly serious.

This is an illness peculiar to temperate climates and is more common in the northern part of this continent than in the south. Like all the eruptive contagious diseases except smallpox, it attacks children more commonly than adults. It is caused by a round-shaped streptococcus, one of the most dangerous bacteria known.

In its first stage, it is difficult to diagnose exactly. Like all the common eruptive contagious diseases it begins with a fever, and its distinctive symptoms do not appear for four or five days after the victim becomes ill. The doctor called in the meantime, as he should be, will of course, take a culture at the back of the throat, to see if streptococcus is present. Another symptom in this early stage may give him a clue as to the identity of the disease: a heavily-coated tongue, for this is often the condition of the organ in the first stage of scarlet fever. Later, the tongue becomes a beefy red color and the little papillae or ridges along the sides become large and prominent. At this stage the symptoms leave no doubt of what is wrong.

Tomorrow: Treatment of Scarlet Fever.

INCOME TAX IN A NUTSHELL

DEDUCTION FOR BAD DEBTS

Bad debts constitute a considerable item in the returns of many taxpayers and may be treated in one of two ways—either by deduction from gross income in respect to debts ascertained to be worthless either in whole or in part and charged off, or by a deduction of a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. Taxpayers were given an option for 1921 to select either of the two methods. The method used in the return for 1921 must be used in returns for subsequent years unless permission is granted by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to change to the other method. Application to change must be made at least 30 days prior to the close of the taxable year for which the change is to be effective. However, a taxpayer filing a first return for 1940 may select either of the two methods, subject to the approval of the Commissioner upon examination of the return. Permission to adopt the reserve method is limited to taxpayers having a large number of accounts where credit is extended over a considerable period of time. It is not granted for the purpose of handling one specific debt.

What constitutes a "reasonable addition" to a reserve for bad debts must be determined in the light of the facts, and will vary as between classes of business and with conditions of business prosperity. It will depend primarily upon the total amount of debts outstanding as of the close of the taxable year, those arising currently as well as those arising in prior taxable years, and the total amount of the existing reserve. In case subsequent realizations upon outstanding debts prove to be more or less than estimated at the time of the creation of the existing reserve, the amount of the excess or inadequacy in the existing reserve should be reflected in the determination of the reasonable addition necessary in the taxable year. A taxpayer using the reserve method should show in his return the volume of charge sales (or other business transactions) for the year, and the percentage of the reserve to such amount, the total amount of notes and accounts receivable at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and the total amount of the debts ascertained to be worthless and charged against the reserve during the taxable year.

In a petition filed with the court Sheriff M. M. Ingham asks that he be authorized to appoint an extra deputy to serve in the capacity of jail warden during the night hours. The petition sets out that the matter had been presented to the salary board of the county but had been ignored.

Commenting upon the petition Sheriff Ingham said "it is a matter of safety to have a man on night duty. Under the present setup I am on duty all day every day and subject to calls at any time of the night. Deputies Badger and Dean serve every day and Deputy Paul A. Stark is on duty during the day as warden of the jail and also works several nights per week. Thomas

F. O'Brien serves at night from 5 to 11 o'clock but from 11 o'clock on there is no warden.

"Many times I have been called out in the early hours of the morning. There is no deputy sheriff on duty at the jail during my absence. Oftentimes we have prisoners of weak mentality and there is always the danger of their doing harm to themselves."

The return date for the petition is the first Monday in March when it will likely be heard by Judges W. Walter Braham and Charles Matthews, Jr.

Bids for the repairing of the court house annex will soon be advertised by the county commissioners. Architect Harry M. Wirsing has been assigned the task of preparing the plans for the repairs and is already at work on them. Mr. Wirsing probably knows the court house layout better than any other one man. He it was who planned the recent remodeling of the court house and also the addition to it. He also drew the plans for the remodeling of the Boyles house.

Michael Schuller of New Castle has filed for a divorce from Vivian Schuller of New Castle on the grounds of indignities to person. They were married October 5, 1929, in Mercer, Pa.

James Abraham has filed a suit for $5000 damages against the Pennsylvania Railroad. Mr. Abraham, a resident of 1207 Pollock avenue claims that on November 1, 1940 he was a passenger in the automobile of Mike Tony on a trip from New Castle to Grove City. At the railroad crossing near Leesburg the car was hit by a train. Mr. Abraham was injured and asks damages.

Judge W. Walter Braham has granted a new trial to Joseph Sciola, a minor and Ralph S. Sciola, a minor by their parents and guardians, Domenick S. and Mary Sciola against Jane Solomon and Harry S. Solomon, guardian ad litem for Jane Solomon.

In a recent trial a verdict of $128.75 was returned to the parents of the two minor plaintiffs for injuries to them in an accident at Reynolds and Pollock avenue Judge Braham holds that the verdict was unequal. If the plaintiffs were guilty of contributory negligence, then the parents could not collect he says, but the jury found a verdict for the parents.

State Jobless Fund Interest Piles Up

Interest earnings on Pennsylvania's Unemployment Compensation Fund have passed the $7,000,000 mark, according to reports received by Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines from federal treasury officials. More than $757,000 in interest was added to the fund in the fourth quarter of 1940 which, added to previously accrued interest, made a total of approximately $7,300,000.

Americans spend around $80,000,000 a year on doughnuts.
